

About sym.net

sym.net was founded in 1998. The owner-run company employs up to 10 regular staff and contractors depending on our current projects. We work closely with different partners to guarantee expertise in a range of fields.

The main focus of our work is the development and provision of internet-based software solutions for information, knowledge and learning management.

In other words, sym.net helps to communicate information to people in companies and organizations, to provide training and allow them to network, to simplify work processes and promote quality, and to facilitate management tasks by providing precise data.

What we can do for you sym.net offers all services necessary to utilize Odalis productively for information, knowledge and learning management in businesses and organizations. These include:

- Consulting, conceptualization, evaluation
- Establishing specifications
- Project management
- Software development and adaptation
- Training for developers, administrators and users
- Organizational development, coaching and corporate consulting
- Change management, internal marketing
- Services for a widespread Open Source LMS (development, implementation, training, development of organizational and educational concepts)

About Odalis

The Open Data Linking System was invented as an open source software framework to provide stable, performing solutions to complex process requirements. We use it to build all our online-services like, for instance, the Odalis LMS.

References

Some of our clients (selection): Siemens AG, Allianz AG, Fresenius AG, Ministry of Economics Brandenburg, City of Leverkusen, University o.a.s Lübeck...

To sum up

sym.net is a competent, agile, long-term and authentic partner.

- Competent: Our capital consists of many years of project experience, deep expertise and common sense.
- Agile: Our reaction times for bids, consulting and project work are short and we are always willing to listen to your requests.
- Long-term: We have your long-term success in mind and deliver high, lasting quality for your benefit.
- Authentic: We always say what we think – as long as our opinions are grounded in our professional experience and help us arrive at compelling solutions for you. Even if this sometimes makes us the bad guys...

Contact us:

sym.net

Christoph Siefer

Gotenring 27

50679 Köln

Phone: 0049 (0)221 376 259 - 0

email: siefer@sym.net

web: www.sym.net